IM_PULSE EUROPE - EUROPE IM_PULSE

After the former project series ,MY HEART IN ...‘, whereby buildings in Germany and Brazil have already been turned into bio-sensory light objects, now the body based public intervention IM_PULS is intended to be realized. As a first pilot project for all over Europe, the highest possible architectural building of Germany will be transformed into a heart controlled light sculpture.

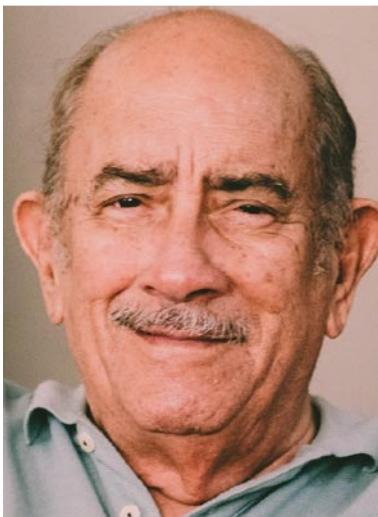

Involved European citizens like the mayors, asylum seekers, children, homeless people, teachers, hospice patients, cab drivers, etc ... will ( by one persons per night ) display their hearts live(!)-pulse through the kinetic illuminated top of Germanys highest TV tower.

Starting at dusk, a public, far visible pulse-peak of these hearts illuminates the top and the exterior of the resident architecture by heart controlled, indirect lighting impulses. A modified watch measures and transmits the quiet, hidden, individual biofeedback from the participant to the installed lighting modules. The enclosed simulations outlines this functionality and appearance.

The far across city borders interacting building temporarily becomes a signaling, widely visible 'land- mark' above Berlin that initially generates a high public and also EU wide attention. Parts of the audience experience the abstract light kinetic unmediated and by coincidence. Therefore the artistic intervention and each of the daily changing participants (all citizens from Berlin and all over Europe) will be introduced in advance by print-, social-(online) and TV-media.

The selected cross section of these citizens stands in association with increasingly questions regarding our will and heart for solidarity, respect, diversity, common welfare in this region as a mirror for all societies over Europe (...). In connected with the most urgent questions: What matters community, how do we want to live and shape inevitable changing societies, nature and environments (...).
